

FROM THE EUROPEAN SOUTH

A TRANSDISCIPLINARY JOURNAL OF POSTCOLONIAL HUMANITIES

call for papers – issue 3 – summer 2018

Open Call for Issue 3

summer 2018

The next issue of From the European South (FES) is open to contributions that speak to the core interests of the journal.

Please see the focus and scope section of FES on our website (<http://europeansouth.postcolonialitalia.it/about/policies>).

Issue 3 welcomes unpublished, original contributions that sparkle productive dialogues between the postcolonial and other critical perspectives (such as decolonial, global, environmental, gender studies and critical theory), as well as different disciplines and geo-cultural locations. The journal is committed to a focus on the uneven power relationships between the North and the South of the world (as 'labels' that are hardly tenable and need to be critically addressed) and at the crossroads of class, gender, religion, ethnic belonging, and race.

We invite you to submit

- articles, reviews, interviews, creative interventions
- exploring textual, critical, figural, artistic, spatial, historical, social, political aspects of the postcolonial
- in the humanities: literature, language studies, philosophy, religion, history, geography, visual arts, performing arts...
- in the humanities that are also social sciences: anthropology, archaeology, area studies, communication studies, cultural studies, gender studies, politics, psychology, sociology...
- and possibly with a transdisciplinary approach

Deadline for article submission: January 31st, 2018

Acceptance of submitted articles: March 31st, 2018
